FACING A CRISIS

Kentucky is facing a crisis. In the past Kentucky has never been found wanting. Even in the pioneer days Kentuckians won for the nation all the vast territory west of the mountains. They composed the backbone of the army of George Rogers Clarke.

During the Civil war Kentucky contributed its quota to both the Union and Confederate armies.

Kentucky never failed the flag when the world seethed with war and men shouldered arms to crush the menace of the domination of Force, called militarism.

Today the happiness, the prosperity, the financial soundness of all the Blue Grass is imperiled because of an old-time and outworn system of selling tobacco.

Mercer county is facing the greatest money catastrophe of a generation; men are going bankrupt, they are giving up their homes, they are unable to pay their bills. Their children are kept in the fields instead of in schools. The banks are trembling in the balance, because they cannot collect the money they have loaned.

A remedy is at hand. The Co-operative Burley Marketing Association will be formed and the tobacco of Kentucky will be scientifically sold at a good price, if—

If what? If the Kentucky farmers have the good business sense to sign the contract; to pledge 75 per cent of the crop; to place the tobacco situation where it will be a paying business.

Every man who remains out is hurting himself, his neighbor, the prosperity of the community, the well being of the state.

Men of Mercer county, what are you going to do?

Join and join all together.—Harrodsburg Democrat.
